Fit-a-thon

Objective

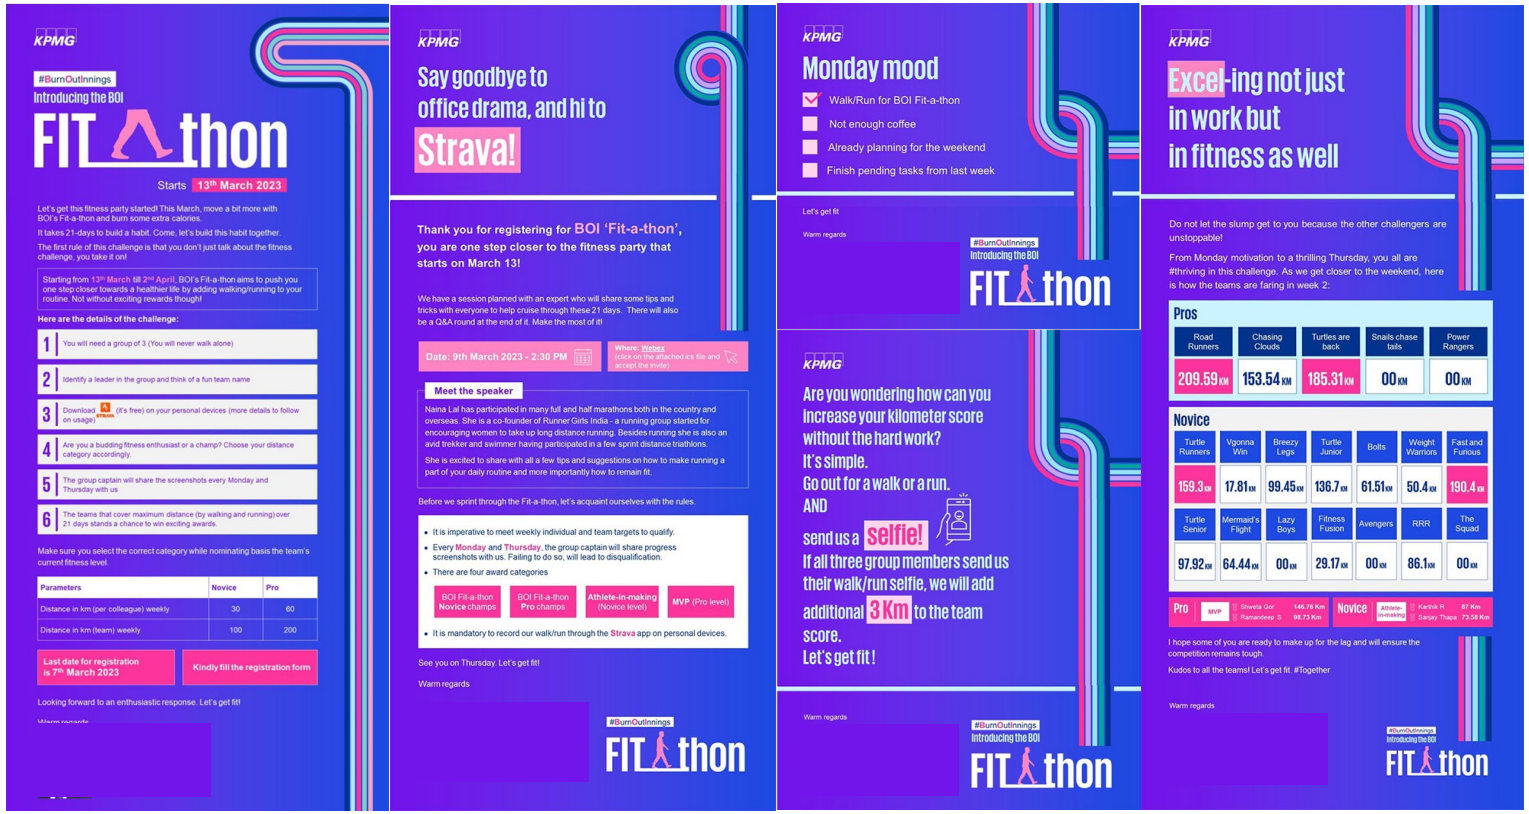

Design a fitness campaign to encourage employee wellness, teamwork, and motivation.

Solution

- Developed a retro track motif with bold, curved lines symbolizing movement, progress, and habit-building.
- Crafted a consistent visual identity across posters, infographics, and weekly updates.
- Applied bold typography and high-energy colors to convey momentum and excitement.
- Designed gamified assets including MVP recognition, team leaderboards, and selfie bonus points.
- Integrated Strava tracking to foster accountability and friendly competition.
- Delivered motivational nudges throughout the campaign to sustain engagement.

POP- Palette of Perspectives

Objective

To celebrate inclusivity within the organisation by highlighting diverse talents, voices, and perspectives through engaging storytelling and visual identity.

Solution

- Conceptualized and designed the brand identity, inspired by a vibrant splash of colours, symbolising inclusivity and diversity.
- Designed the POP logo, featuring the abbreviation Palette of Perspectives in seven distinct colours, each representing uniqueness and unity.
- Developed the visual system for campaign assets, ensuring a consistent and recognisable look across all communications.
- Supported the bi-weekly newsletter, which featured interviews with employees showcasing their talents, experiences, and perspectives on inclusivity.
- Created layouts and visuals that balanced storytelling with bold, approachable design.

Inside OneCreative

Objective

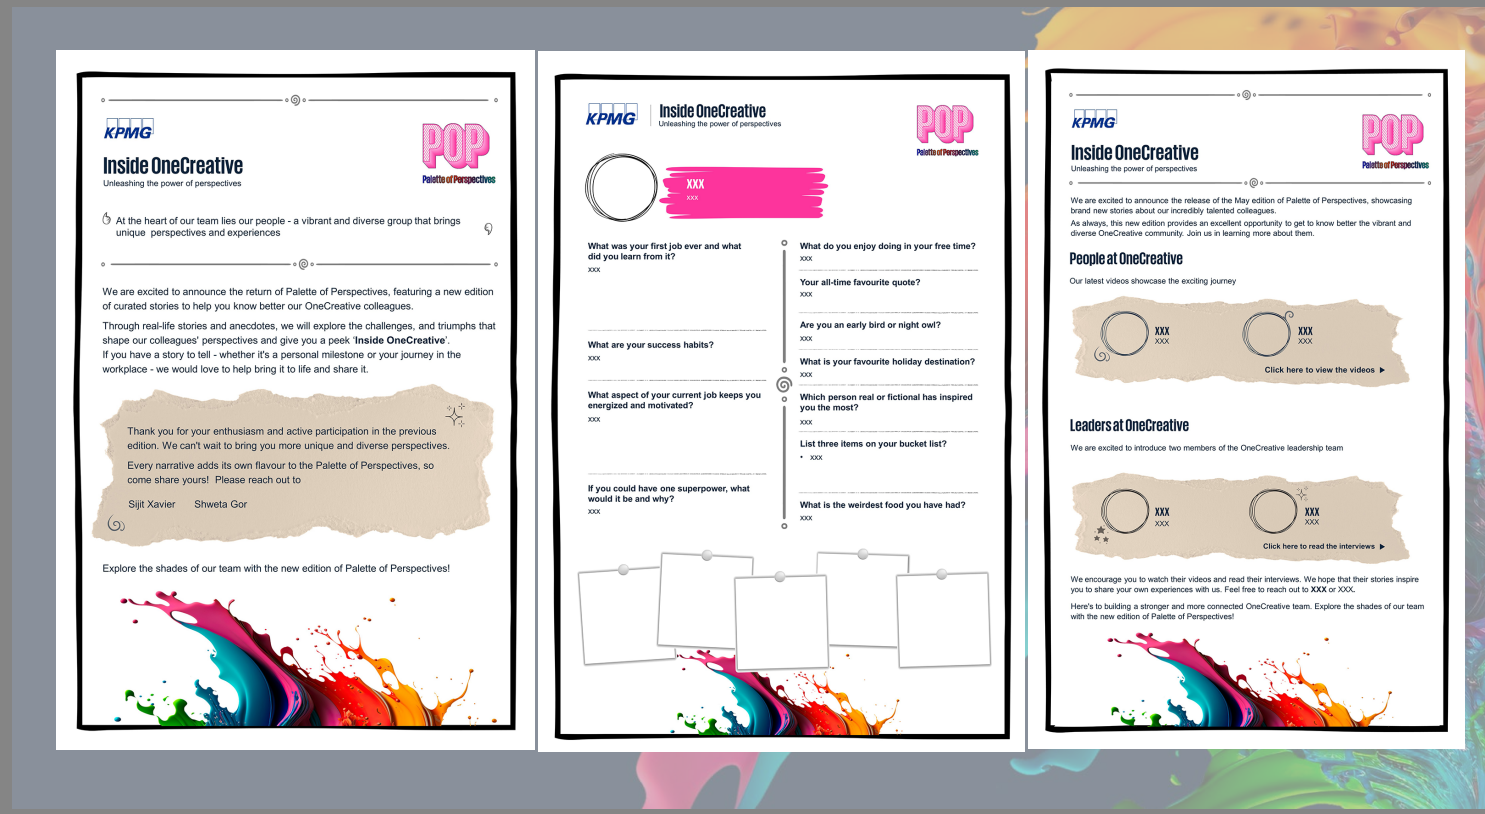

Design a new series under the POP campaign to showcase authentic stories of colleagues and leadership in a format that feels engaging, approachable, and memorable.

Solution

- Designed Inside OneCreative campaign as a storybook-inspired sub-series under the inclusivity campaign Palette of Perspectives.
- Used a fairytale design theme to symbolize the power of stories, blending playful elements with a professional tone.
- Created branded Q&A templates featuring 7 lighthearted questions and 4 career-focused questions to balance relatability and professional insights.
- Integrated the series into the POP newsletter, ensuring consistent engagement and visibility.

Global values week

Objective

To design a week-long internal campaign that highlighted KPMG's five core values — Integrity, Excellence, Courage, Together, and For Better. The goal was to create engaging daily mailers that would resonate with employees and help them connect personally with these values.

Solution

- Developed a consistent visual theme across all daily mailers to unify the campaign.
- Incorporated human-centric imagery to create relatability and emphasize that values are lived by people, not just principles.
- Designed value-specific color codes and icons to distinguish each day while keeping the campaign cohesive.
- Balanced corporate branding with approachability, ensuring alignment with KPMG's identity while making the content engaging for employees.

Table tennis tournament

Objective

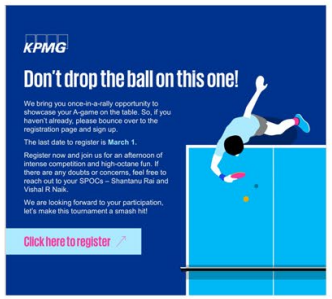

To drive employee participation in a fun and engaging table tennis tournament by designing end-to-end communication — from registrations to final results — that built excitement and celebrated sportsmanship.

Solution

- Created a series of illustrative mailers covering every stage: registration, match schedules, reminders, and winner announcements.
- Used dynamic illustrations of table tennis elements (rackets, paddles, tables) to visually capture the energy of the game.
- Designed in a bright, vibrant palette to reflect enthusiasm, fun, and team spirit.
- Incorporated clear information hierarchy (schedules, rules, winners) to ensure easy readability for employees.
- Ensured visual consistency across all touchpoints to strengthen the event's identity.

Poster

Objective

Create a compelling visual identity for the "Consulting Golden Globes" afterparty that conveys exclusivity, excitement, and a premium red-carpet experience, appealing to the consulting industry's top professionals and capturing the essence of a glamorous awards night.

Solution

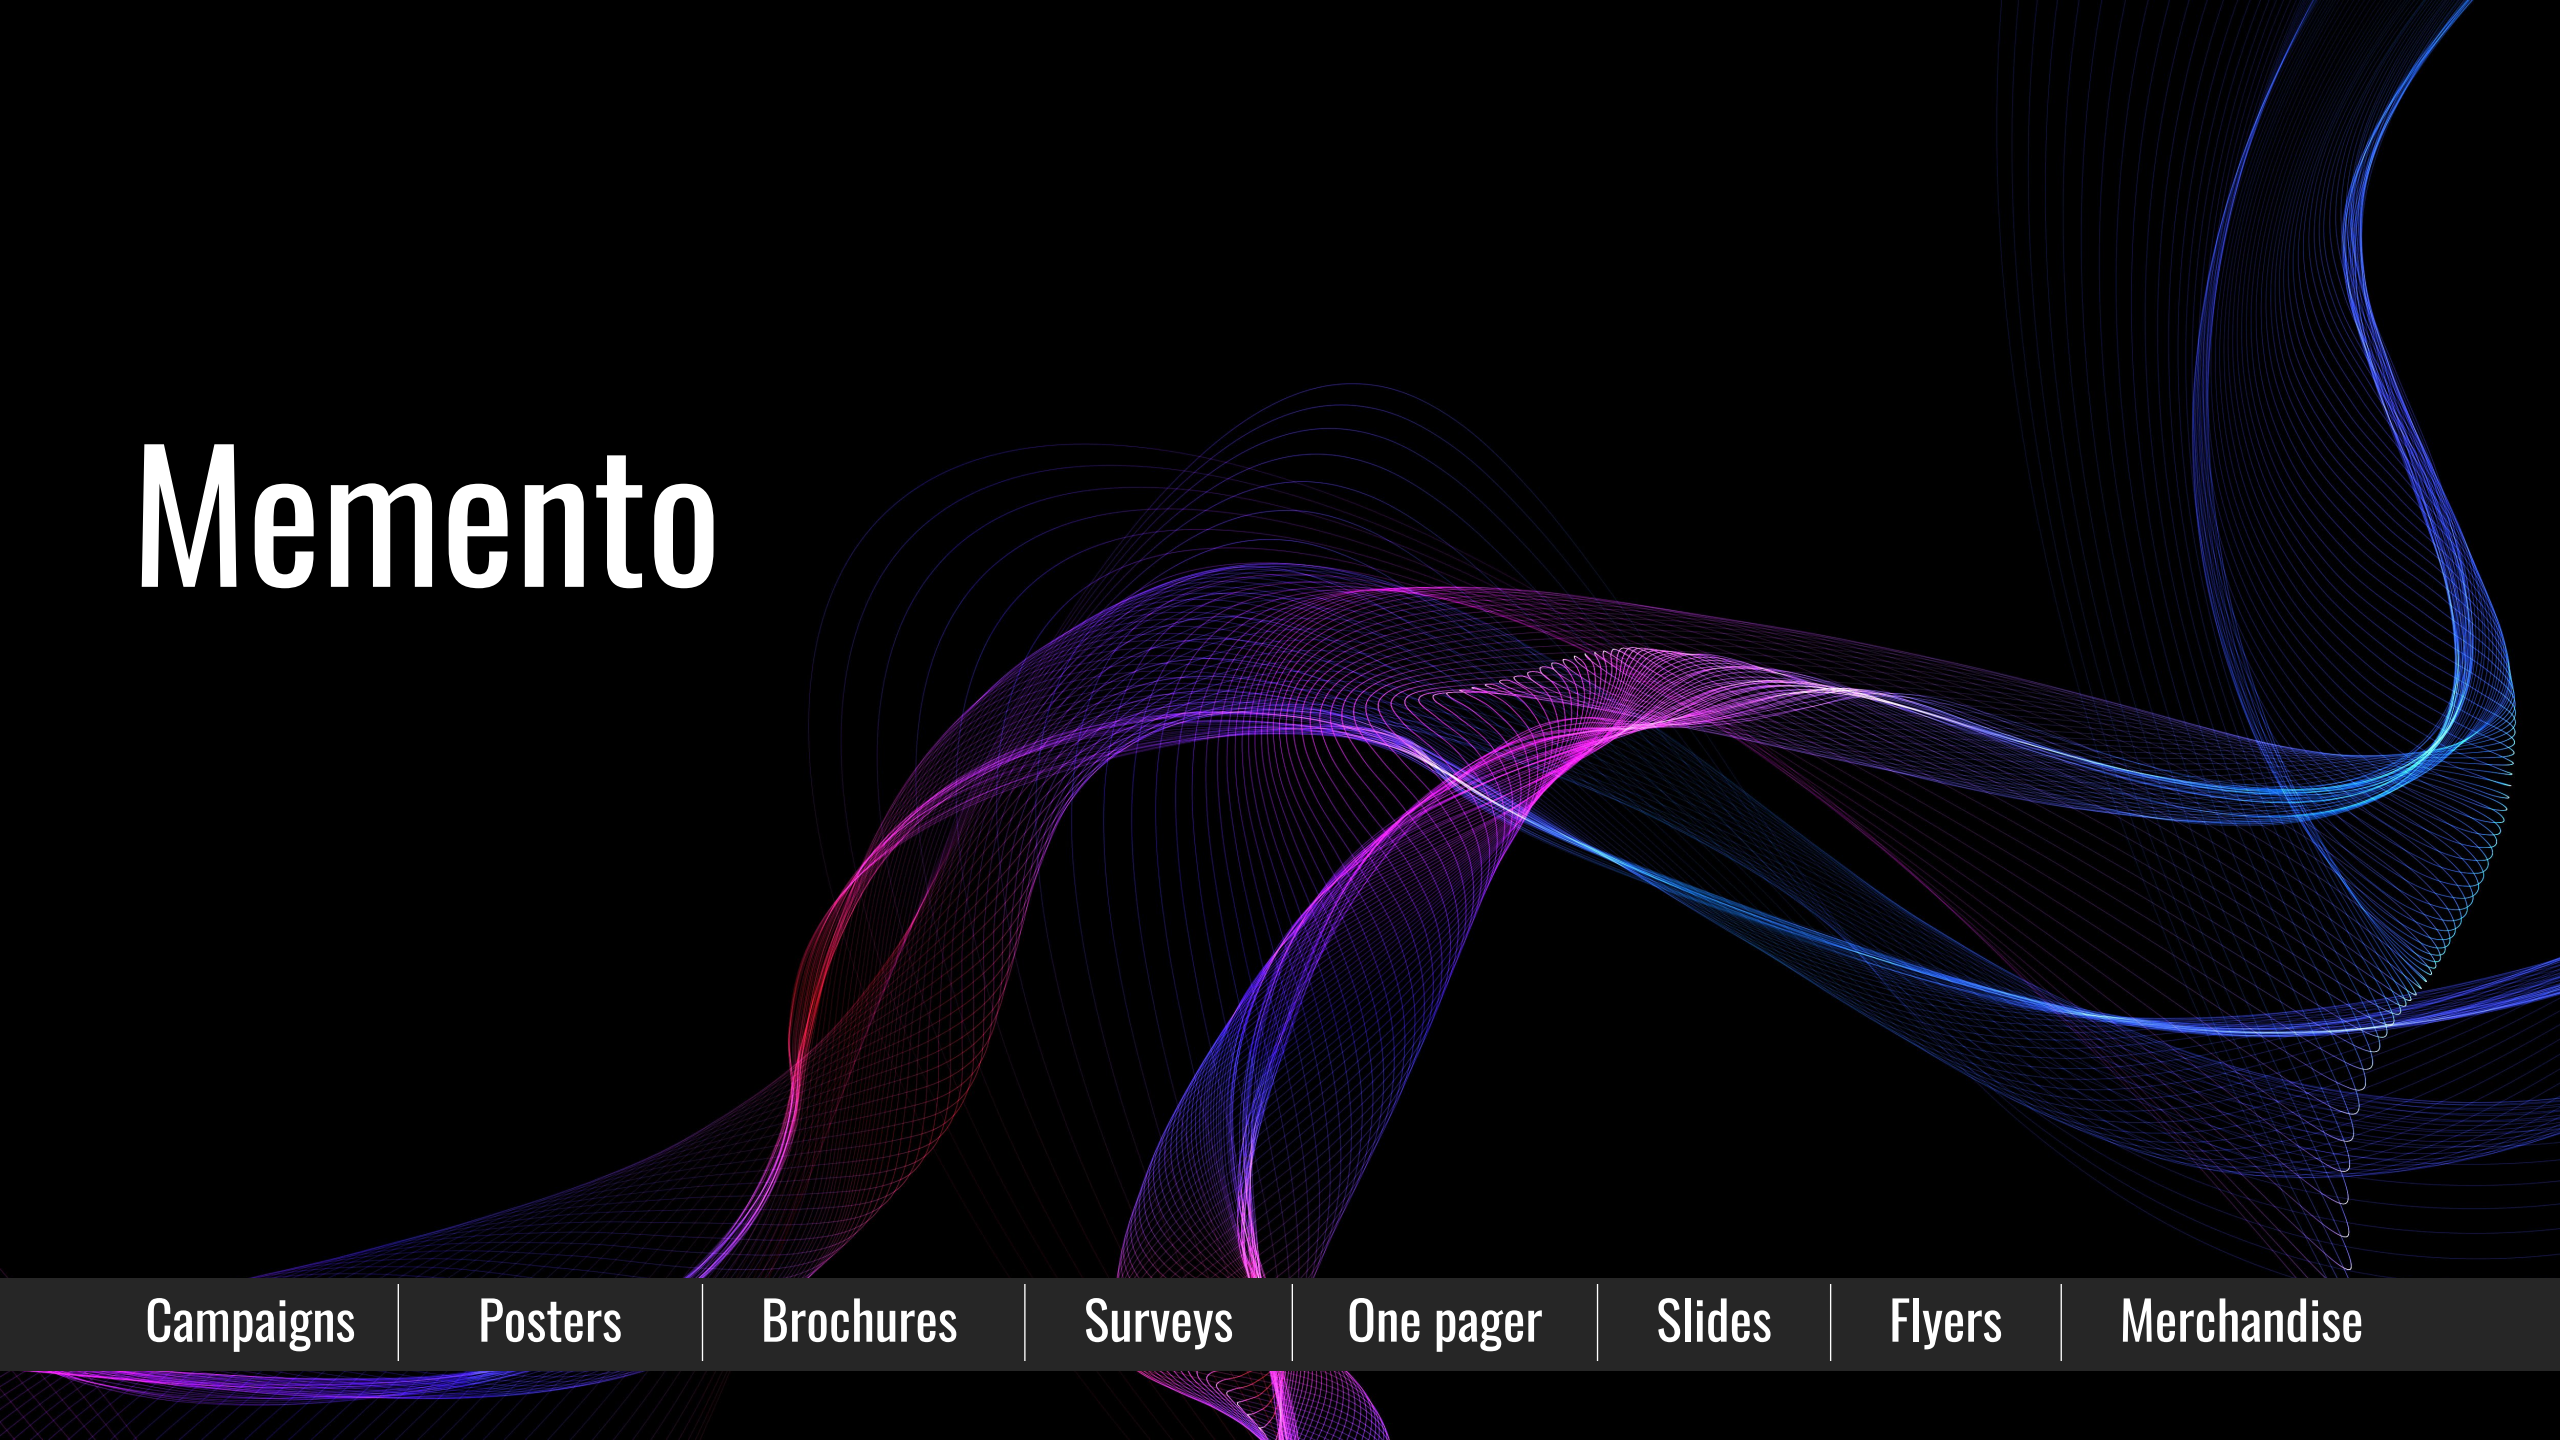

- A striking red carpet, accented with vivid blue lights, defines the visual center and evokes celebration and exclusivity for the Consulting Golden Globes Afterparty.
- Bold white typography provides clarity and immediate recognition for both event and afterparty details.
- The two layout variations, a clean photographic version and an alternative with a red organic overlay, offer visual contrast while staying true to brand identity.
- Both designs create an immersive, energetic atmosphere, balancing clear messaging with modern aesthetics for digital and print promotion, ensuring the event stands out and is memorable to the target audience.

Memento

Objective

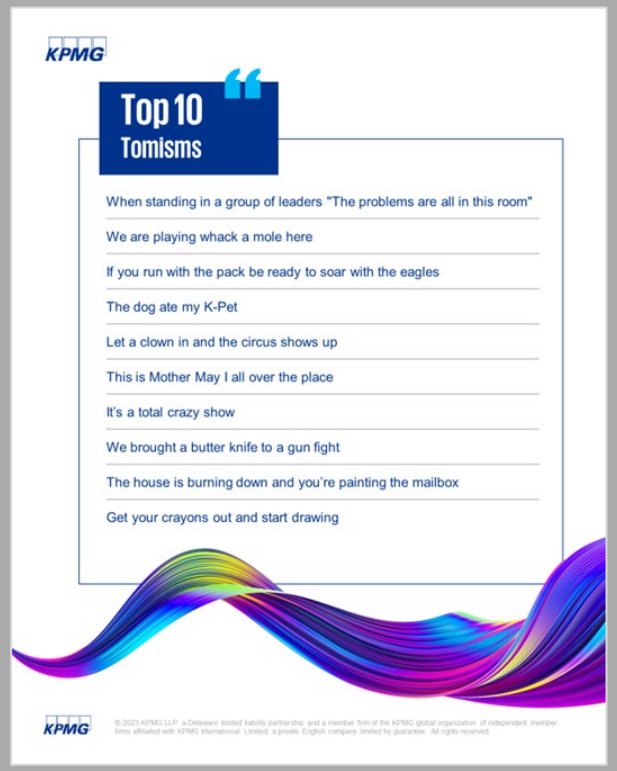

To create a personalized farewell memento for a KPMG Partner that reflects his leadership influence, personality, and memorable phrases (“Tomisms”).The goal was to design a professional yet warm keepsake that resonates with KPMG’s brand identity while celebrating the individual’s legacy within the Consulting team.

Solution

- Designed a two-part visual memento combining formal appreciation text with a creative, light-hearted list of “Top 10 Tomisms.”
- Used KPMG’s brand colors, typography, and layout standards to ensure corporate consistency.
- Balanced professional tone and personal touch through visual hierarchy — pairing heartfelt messaging with a clean, modern aesthetic.
- Created multiple layout versions: one for presentation use and another for print gifting, incorporating abstract design motifs inspired by KPMG’s visual identity.

Certificates

Objective

To rebrand the Tech4Trust Season 6 certificate (1st Prize, PwC SecTech Award, presented to Reshape) so it follows the PwC brand identity. The original used a dark grey background, a clip-art trophy, and sponsor logos placed separately below the certificate. The goal was a cleaner, more professional design that feels consistent with PwC's visual language, while keeping every award detail unchanged.

Solution

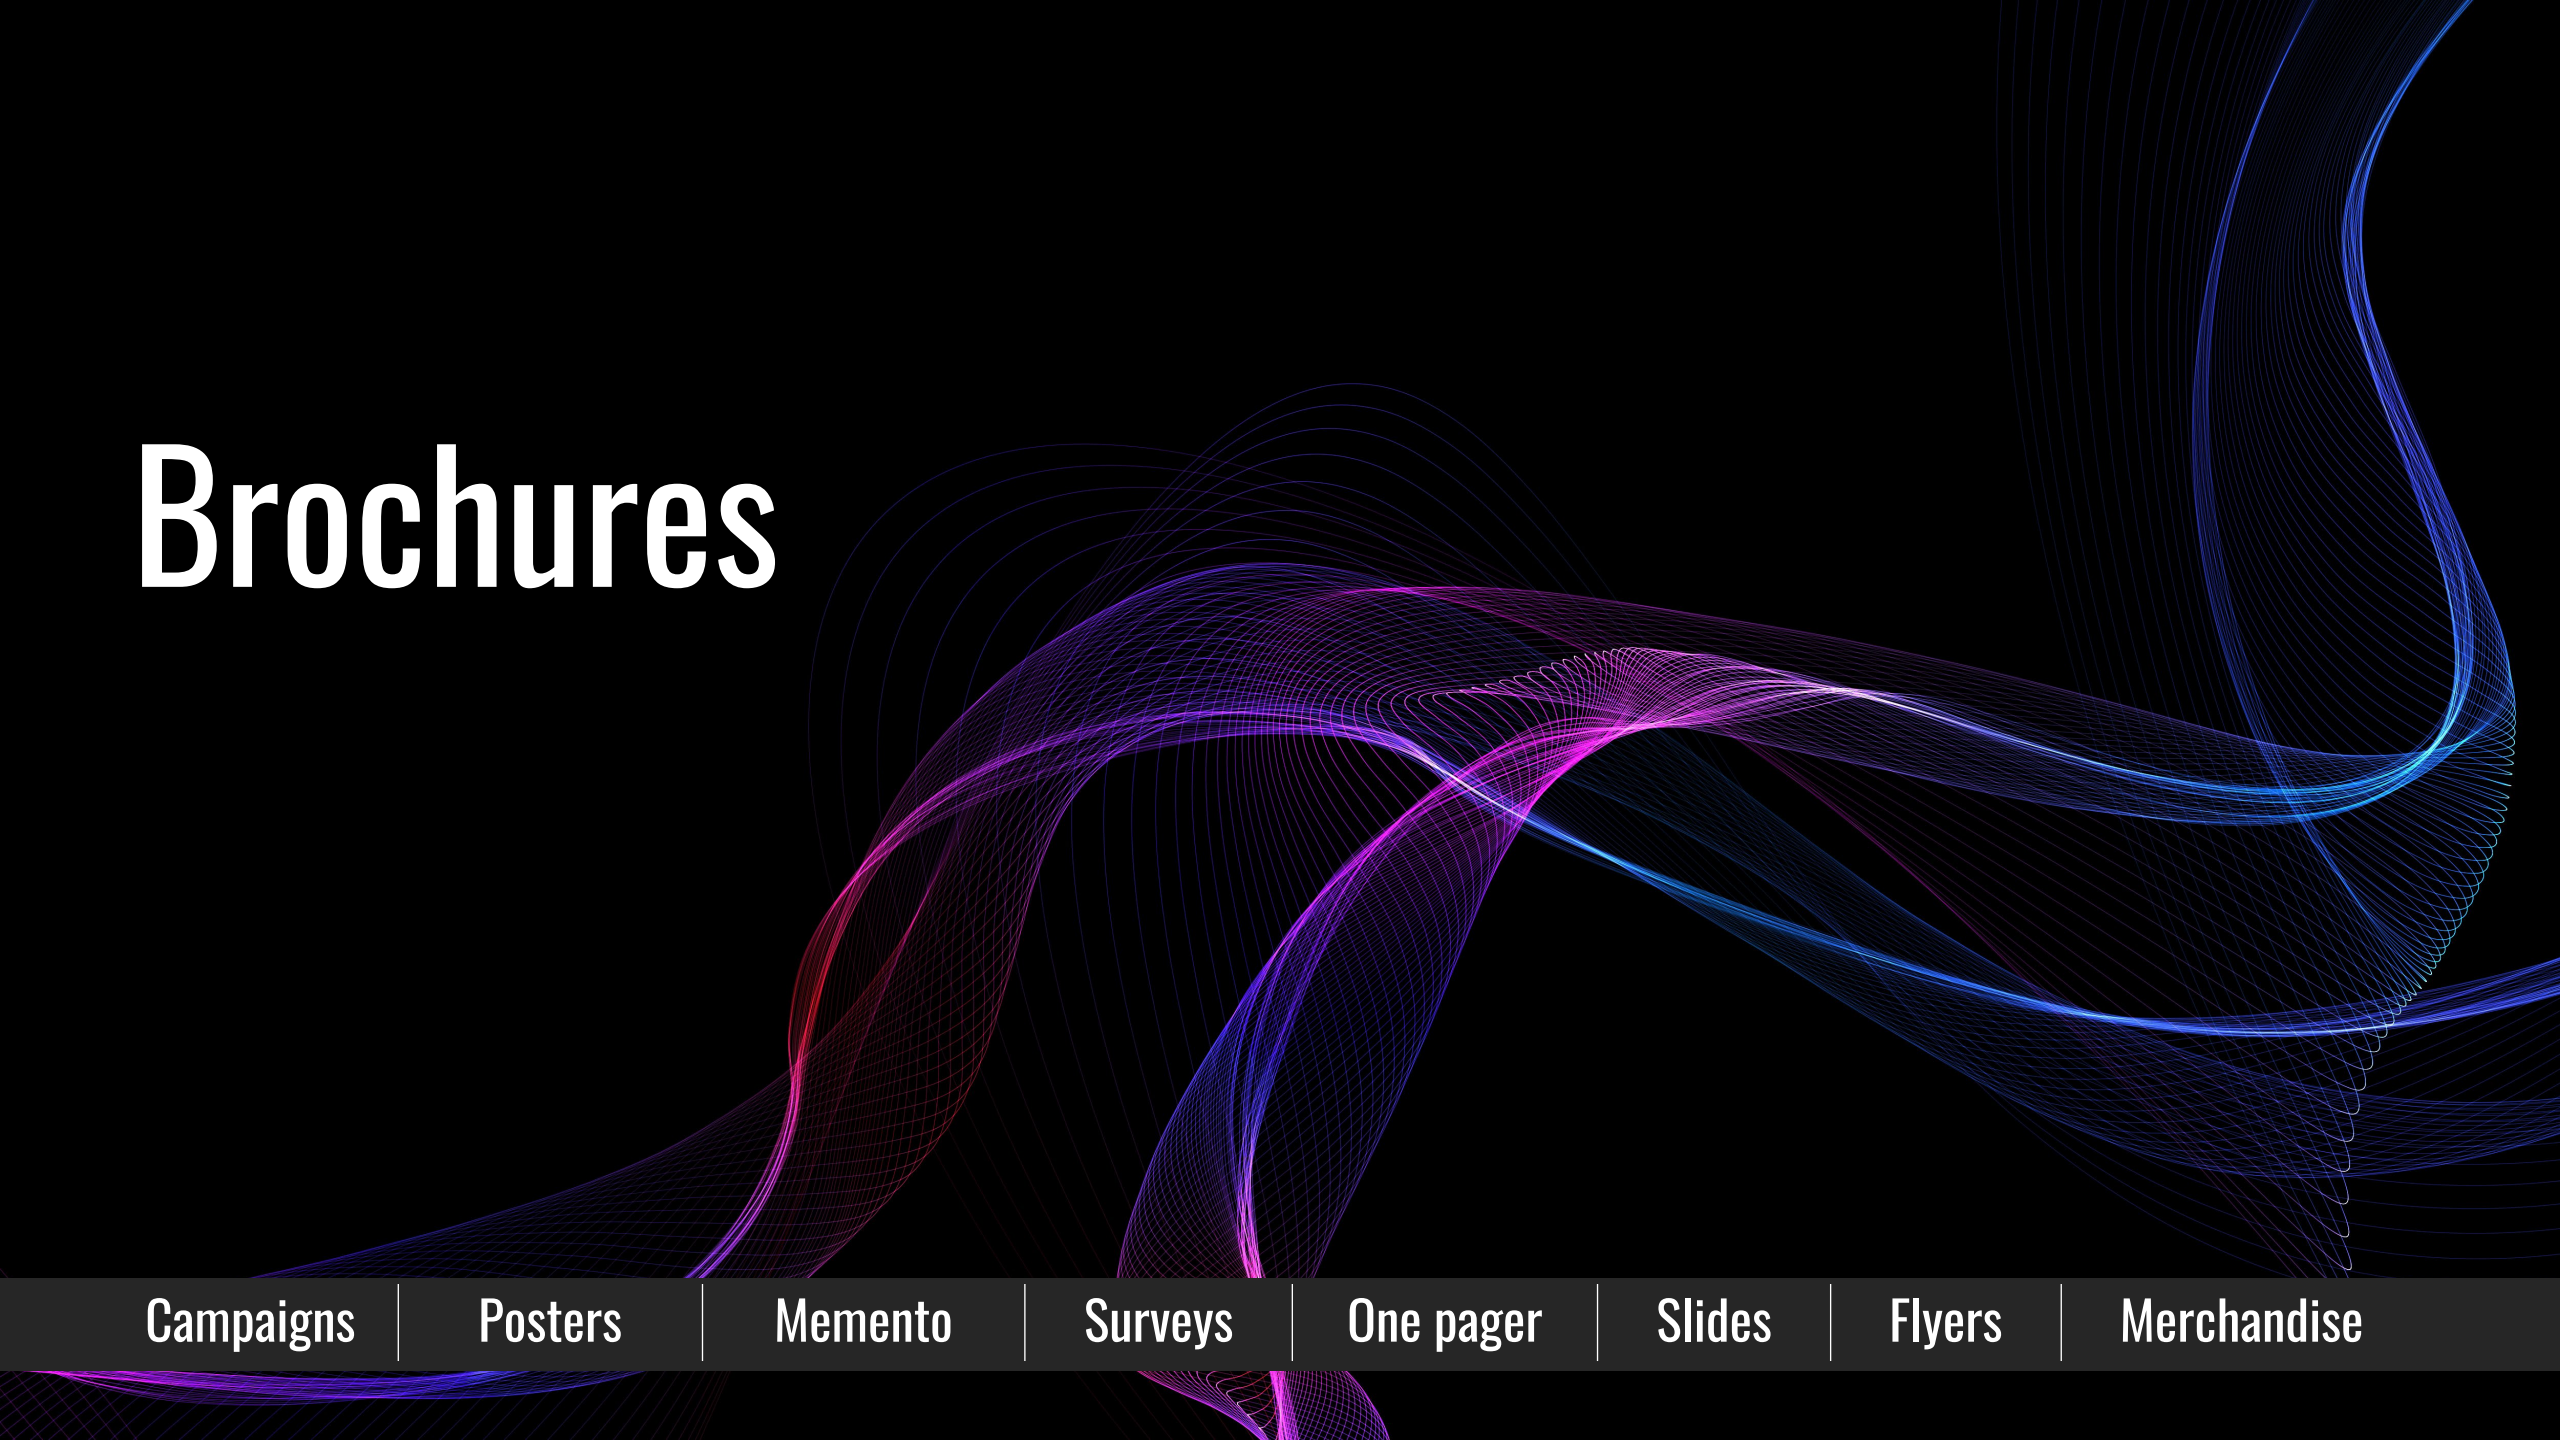

- Kept all award details unchanged, including the title, recipient, date, and signature.
- Replaced the dark background with a soft orange-peach gradient.
- Moved the PwC and Tech4Trust logos to the top corners.
- Used a serif and sans-serif pairing for clear hierarchy.
- Highlighted "Reshape" in brand orange.
- Swapped the clip-art trophy for a real photo with PwC's orange parallelogram shapes.
- Presented the final design in a framed wall mock-up

Swiss Entertainment and Media Outlook

Objective

To design an 80-page Swiss Entertainment and Media Outlook, 2026-2030 report for PwC that presents complex market forecasts in a clear, engaging format. The report needed to follow PwC's brand identity and make 30+ data graphs easy to read.

Solution

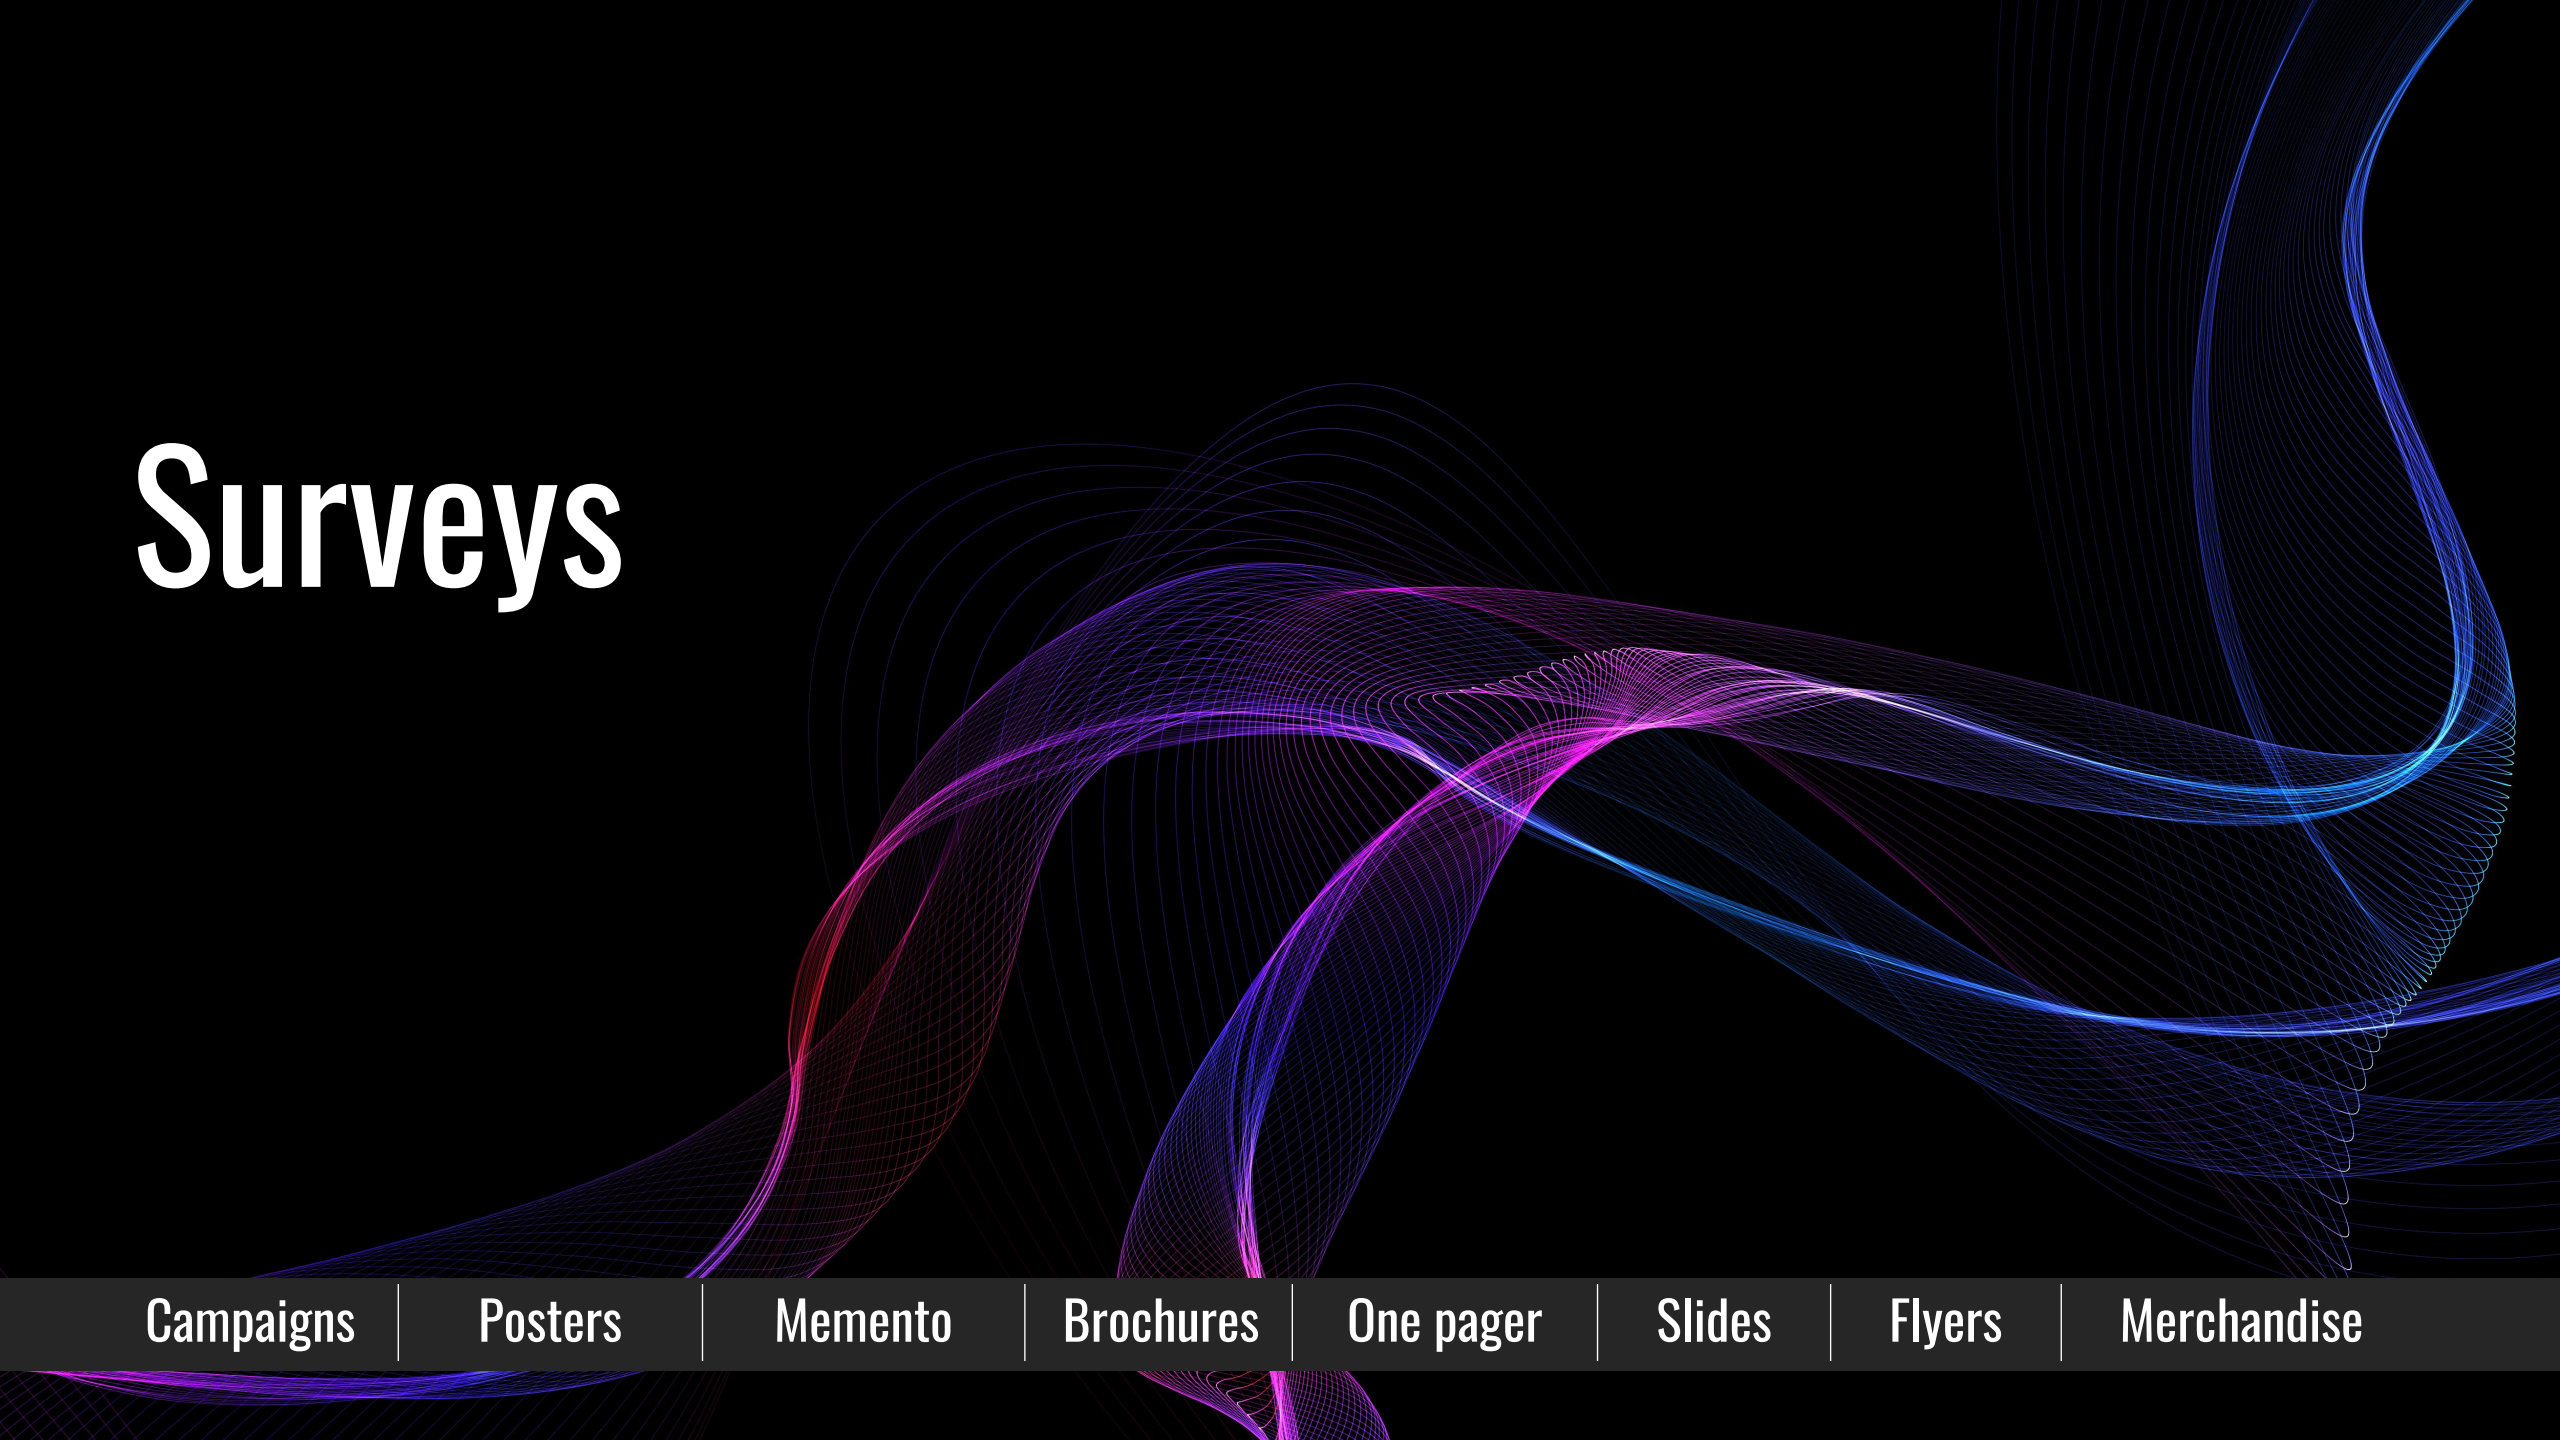

- Designed the full 80-page layout in InDesign, following PwC's brand guidelines for typography, colors, and grid.
- Created a cover with a human-centered photo, Momentum mark, and a clear title hierarchy.
- Extended the cover image to fit the full cover format using AI-assisted image expansion.
- Built 30+ graphs (bar, area, and line charts) in PwC's orange and grey palette so data reads consistently across the report.

Workforce and Benchmarking study

Objective

To turn a text-heavy Word draft into a polished, landscape-format Workforce Experience & Benchmarking Study (Switzerland 2025/2026) for PwC, on a tight deadline. The report needed to follow PwC's brand identity, present survey data through clear graphs, and be easy to navigate.

Solution

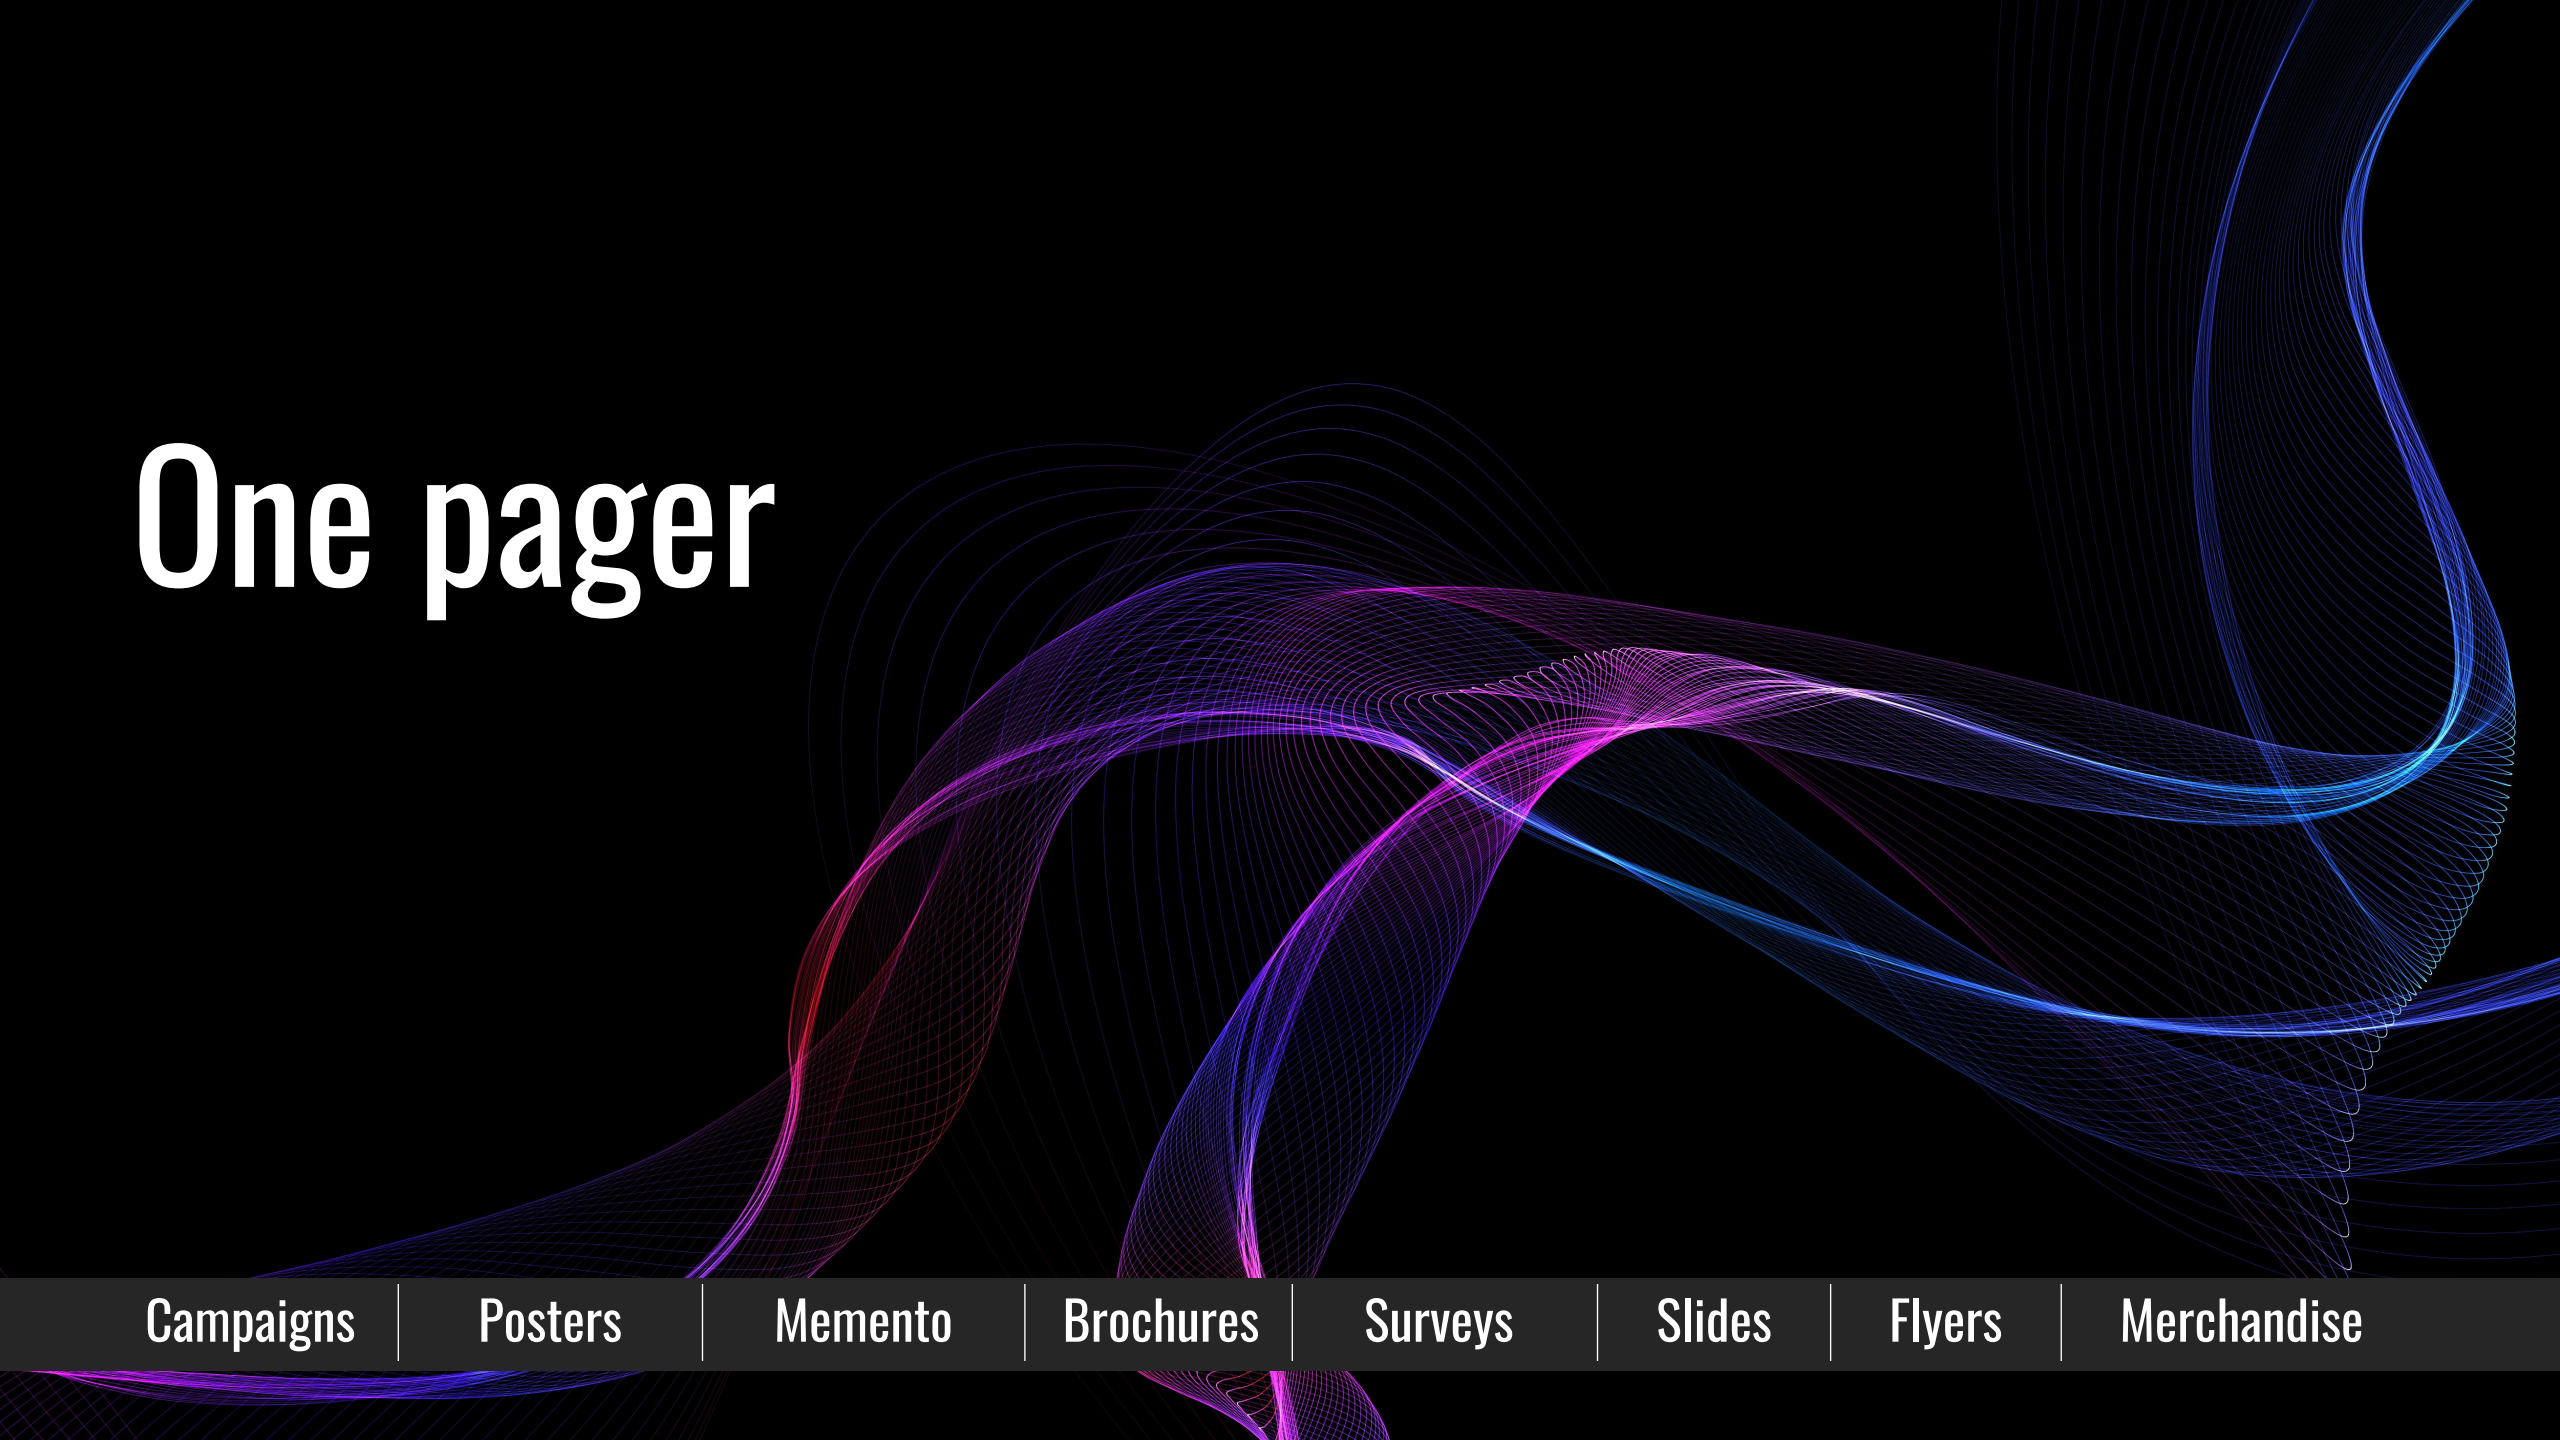

- Restructured the Word content into a clear flow, from Introduction to Conclusions.
- Designed the full layout in InDesign using PwC's typography, orange palette, and grid.
- Created a bold cover with the orange parallelogram motif and a people-focused photo.
- Built ranked bar charts and a satisfaction vs. importance heat-map.
- Added highlighted stats, a "How to read the data?" call-out, and custom orange icons.
- Added a bottom tab bar so readers can jump between sections.
- Used reusable styles to deliver on time.

One pager

Objective

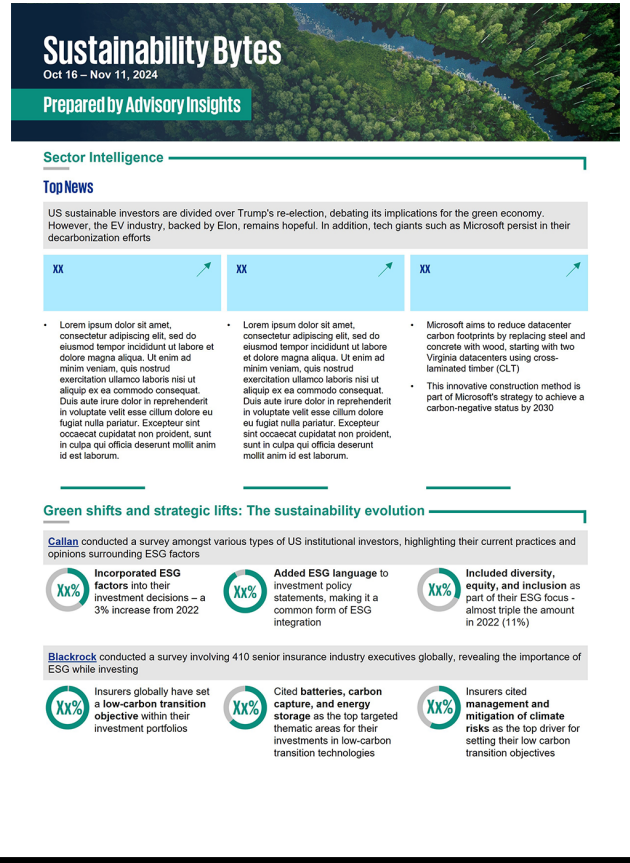

To design a visually engaging and information-rich sustainability newsletter that highlights key environmental insights, ESG trends, and strategic shifts within the corporate landscape. The goal was to simplify complex sustainability data into an accessible and appealing format for senior stakeholders and clients.

Solution

- Created a modern, clean, and brand-aligned newsletter layout titled “Sustainability Bytes”, integrating data visualization, concise summaries, and strategic storytelling.
- The design uses a green-blue palette to reflect environmental themes, modular sections for readability, and iconography to enhance comprehension.
- Each edition was structured to communicate key sector intelligence, sustainability initiatives, and evolving ESG strategies effectively.

Flyers

Objective

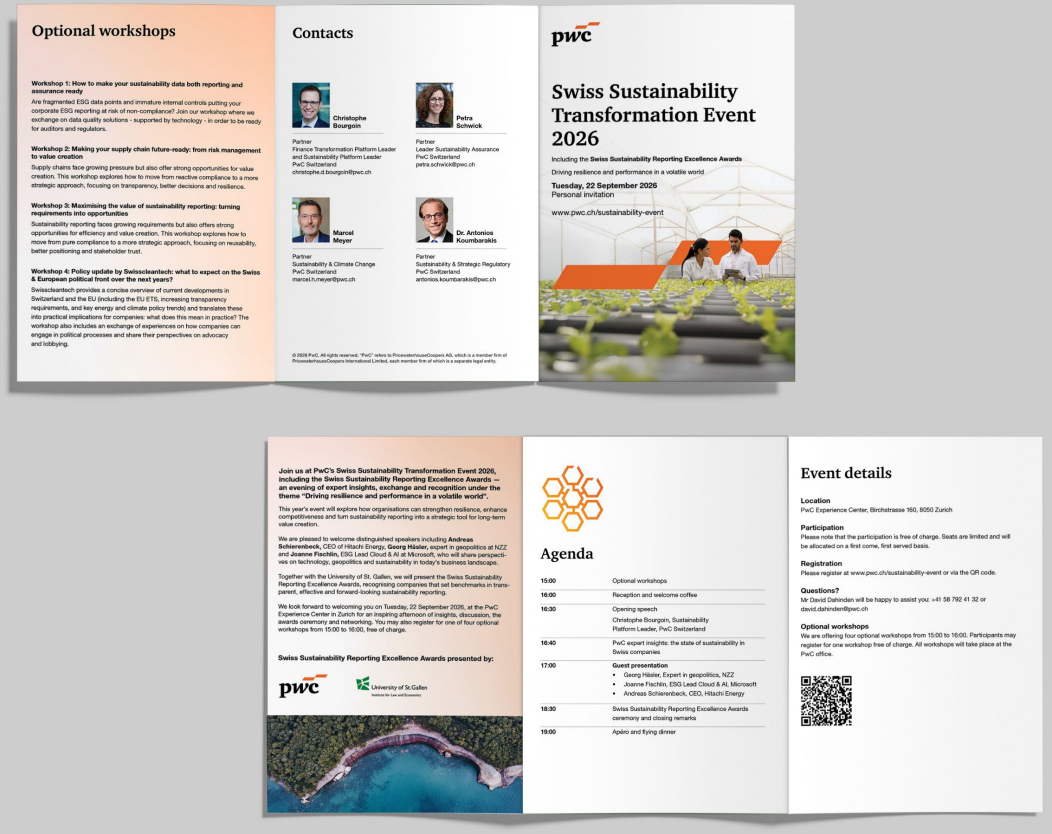

To design a 6-page invitation flyer for PwC's Swiss Sustainability Transformation Event 2026, including the Swiss Sustainability Reporting Excellence Awards. The flyer needed to present the agenda, workshops, speakers, and registration details clearly while following PwC's brand identity.

Solution

- Designed a 6-page folded flyer in InDesign using PwC's typography, orange palette, and grid.
- Created a cover with the event title, date, and a nature-themed photo with the orange parallelogram motif.
- Built a welcome page with a peach gradient, partner logos (PwC and University of St.Gallen), and a banner image.
- Laid out the agenda as a clean timetable with an orange icon for quick scanning.
- Organised the event details page with location, registration, and a QR code for easy sign-up.
- Added an optional workshops page and a contacts page with partner photos and details.
